UCD FOUNDER SET FOR CANONISATION

It was announced this week that Cardinal John Henry Newman, the founder of University College Dublin, will be canonised on 13 October by Pope Francis. The canonisation of Newman, who converted from Anglican to Catholicism in 1845, comes after the Vatican announced in February that it had successfully attributed a second miracle to him. Newman was beatified by Pope Benedict XVI in 2010.

Born in 1801, Newman founded the Catholic University in 1854. Originally located at St. Stephen's Green in Dublin, it later became University College Dublin. Newman served as the university's first rector until 1858.

His conversion to Catholicism caused shockwaves in England in the mid-19th century and he went on to become one of the leading figures in the English Catholic Church.

Two miracles must be attributed to someone in order for them to become a saint. The first miracle attributed to Newman relates to the case of a Boston deacon whom Newman is said to have saved from paralysis.

The second miracle relates to a pregnant woman in the United States whom it is claimed Newman saved from unstoppable internal bleeding.

(by Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński)

1. Respect everyone—Christ resides in everyone. Be sensitive to others—they are your brothers and sisters.
2. Think well of everyone - speak ill of no one. Try to find something good even in the worst circumstances.
3. Act always to your neighbour's advantage. Do good things to others, as you would like them done to you. Never give a thought to what others owe you, but always to what you owe them.
4. Work conscientiously - others benefit from the fruits of your labour, just as you benefit from the labour of others.
5. Be active in your community. Be open to the poor and the sick. Share your goods. Try to see the needs of those around you.
6. Pray for everyone, even your enemies.
